

Marta Januszewska
Regional Representative Europe
Oil Spill Response Limited

Marta has been working in the oil spill response market since 2010. Prior to joining OSRL she was a sales support engineer working with oil spill detection radar and currents / wave monitoring sensors in the Netherlands. She was involved in development of new version of radar processing software to detect oil spills. Since she joined OSRL she has attended a number of oil spill response exercises and a range of spill training. Marta has also been involved in providing oil spill response service proposals to the clients in EMEA region, conducting local visits in Europe and assisting our members with the choice of preparedness services.
