

Adam Balogh

Adviser, Investment

Adam Balogh graduated as economist, majoring in finances at the University of Szeged in Hungary, and also attended Georg August Universität in Göttingen, Germany.

After graduation, he joined ExxonMobil in Budapest, where he participated in the improvement of KPI systems and gained process controlling experience. Having particular interest in the gas sector however, Adam joined Földgázzszállító Zrt. (FGSZ), the Hungarian gas TSO. At FGSZ he has been participating in tariff and supply-demand modeling, the elaboration of National Ten Year Network Development Plans and contributed to international projects such as Nabucco and various European gas initiatives, where Adam worked on ENTSOG-related tasks as well.

Adam joined ENTSOG on the 15th of January, 2013 and is working in the System Development Area.