

Marta Januszewska, Regional Representative Europe and Caspian

Oil Spill Response Limited

Marta started in the oil spill response industry in 2010 after graduating with MSc in Oceanography and MA in Political Science. Prior to joining OSRL she was a sales support engineer working with oil spill detection radar and currents / wave monitoring sensors in the Netherlands. Since she joined OSRL she has attended a number of oil spill response exercises and a range of oil spill training courses. In her capacity of Regional Representative in Europe and Caspian, Marta has been conducting local visits, assisting OSRL members with the choice of preparedness services and providing information about the newest developments in industry good practice.
