

Jan Bruil

Senior Consultant at Poten & Partners

Jan is a senior consultant in Poten's natural gas and LNG practice. He has 30 years' experience in consulting in the downstream hydrocarbons sector, of which the last 20 years were in natural gas and LNG. He has managed numerous client assignments in the gas and LNG sectors, and is an expert in natural gas markets and pricing, particularly in Europe. Before joining Poten, he led Gas Strategies Group's energy pricing work as Manager of Analytics, including natural gas pricing analysis which was central to several price negotiations, as well as several successful price arbitration cases. He has led and participated in many recent assignments relating to natural gas and LNG markets and pricing, including Lenders' Market Consultant for LNG export projects in the Americas and East Africa. Jan holds a Master's degree in Chemical Engineering from Cambridge University and postgraduate qualifications in manufacturing engineering, management and finance.