

Dimitris Assimakis is a partner in the Global Corporate Group of Reed Smith, based in the Athens. He focuses on power and gas, energy infrastructure, renewable energy and clean technologies, and he advises clients on regulatory matters, M&A, project financing, and capital markets and privatisation transactions.

With more than 20 years of experience, Dimitris has acted for Greek and international companies, both private and state-owned, as well as financial institutions that invest in or lend to companies operating in Greece.

Dimitris studied law at the University of Athens and obtained a master's degree (LLM) from the Free University of Brussels (Vrije Universiteit Brussel).

Previously, Dimitris worked for the European Parliament and the European Commission, as well as for a leading Greek legal practice and an international law firm in Athens. He is a member of the Athens Bar Association, the Greek Energy Lawyers Association, the Hellenic Wind Energy Association (ELETAEN) and a support member of Hellenic Association of Photovoltaic Companies (HELAPCO).

Dimitris is consistently listed as one of the leading energy lawyers in Greece by major legal directories (Chambers & Partners, The Legal 500, IFLR 1000).