

Nolina Pomparau is a graduate of the State Institute of International Relations from the Republic of Moldova, specializing in economic law.

She is the holder of the scholarship of the Government of the Republic of Moldova and of the National Merit Scholarships with publications in the field of international law.

After the administrative activity within the natural gas transmission company, she returned to public administration where she devotedly ensured the promotion of energy policies.